

Yale Center for Teaching and Learning
Guide to Academic Support Services
<http://ctl.yale.edu/tutoring>

Writing: The Yale College Writing Center offers:

- Tutoring by appointment with the Residential College Writing Tutors. Book online at ctl.yale.edu/tutoring.
- Drop-in appointments with undergrad and grad peer Writing Partners at the Yale College Writing Center, located at 35 Broadway (off York St. behind Toad's). Hours begin after shopping period and run through finals: Sun-Thursday 3-5 pm & 7-9 pm; Fri 3-5 pm.
- Weekly tutoring for international students and other writers as needed. Contact Assistant Director Ryan Wepler (ryan.wepler@yale.edu) for more information.
- Writing Study Halls at the Writing Center twice a week throughout the term: Sundays 3-6 pm and Wednesdays 7-10 pm. The study halls offer a quiet, supportive, and productive space to write, and are staffed by Writing Partners who can offer feedback and advice.

Science & QR

- Many Science and QR courses have peer tutors assigned. Look up your course at ctl.yale.edu/tutoring.
- Residential College Math and Science tutors are available for drop-in hours in most of the colleges. See ctl.yale.edu/tutoring for each tutor's discipline, location, and hours.
- Students who need more help also can request scheduled tutoring through their Residential College Dean.

Humanities and Social Science

- Students having significant difficulty can request scheduled tutoring through their Residential College Dean.

Academic Strategies

- Workshops on the soft skills that are keys to academic success. Workshop schedule at ctl.yale.edu/tutoring.
 - Time management
 - Working with faculty
 - Managing a heavy reading load
 - Strategies for problem sets
 - Class engagement and notetaking strategies for seminars & lectures
 - Exam study strategies
- 1-1 academic mentoring for students who want help setting goals and adapting strategies to their particular learning styles. Sign up via the website at ctl.yale.edu/tutoring or contact Director Karin Gosselink (karin.gosselink@yale.edu).